FocusEconomics produces Consensus Forecasts and macroeconomic data for 198+ countries across Africa, the Americas, Asia, Europe and the Middle East.

METHODOLOGY

The FocusEconomics Consensus Forecast is compiled by surveying a panel of economists at banks, research institutions and consultancies each month. Individual projections for each indicator and country are collected and averaged to form the Consensus, reported alongside minimum, maximum and historical values. Averaging multiple independent forecasts limits the influence of any single outlier and yields a central estimate of expected conditions. Forecasts cover the current and following years and extend to 2050, with more than ten years of historical Consensus data retained.
